TOMATO CATALOGUE

SEEDS, SEEDLINGS & FRUIT

A note from TNG+T

We have been growing heirloom tomatoes on our farm at Selbourne in Tasmania's beautiful Meander Valley since 2010. We grow seasonally and we grow in the soil, using organic and biological methods, because that's when food tastes best.

We produce more than 130 varieties of tomatoes each year, choosing our varieties firstly for taste, but also to provide a wide range of colour, shape, use and adaptability (to different conditions and garden sizes). This season, as well as providing all our old favourites, we will be featuring Seeds of Friendship – heirloom varieties with a story to tell, because like all heirlooms they have been passed down through the generations, from one person to another.

Our seedlings are raised in unheated poly tunnels, with only essential bottom heat for the plants themselves, because we want them hardy enough to survive the cool Tasmanian conditions.

We know you'll find something to suit your needs. If you need some help, please let us know.

PINK QUEEN

A stunningly beautiful large pink beefsteak. Sweet and meaty, making it versatile across a range of uses. Potato leaf.

• Salads • Sauces • Fresh • Preserving • Slicing

Pomodoro

Medium-large oblate (flattened round), rich red fruit with sweet, intense flavour. Meaty, good eating and cooking.

RED Brandywine

A longstanding favourite among tomato lovers who simply want a large, sweet, thick, juicy slab of tomato on toast or grilled with a steak. A great all-rounder.

Roscoe's RED

Given to us by a friend in southern Tasmania, this very sweet large round red is very well adapted to Tasmania's cooler growing conditions.

ROUGE de Marmande

Has French origins. Reliable disease resistant heirloom, with good shape, yield and flavour.

Good all-rounder and long-time favourite of many.

TROPIC

As the name suggests this US heirloom is well suited to warmer areas, doing well in hot, humid conditions. Sweet, medium sized fleshy red fruit with rich flavour.

• Salads • Grilling • Fresh • Preserving • Slicing

VERNA ORANGE

A deep yellow-orange rounded heart. This is one of those sweet, meaty, deliciously juicy orange tomatoes that works just as well fresh as it does in soups and sauces.
